Medical Simulation Corporation Releases Updated SimSuite Sepsis Online Courseware
*Sepsis Concise and Sepsis Comprehensive courses feature more interactivity and opportunities for self-assessment of learning progress

DENVER, March 10, 2011 - Medical Simulation Corporation (MSC) announces the release of updated versions of its popular SimSuite Sepsis Concise and SimSuite Sepsis Comprehensive online courses. Available now at www.medsimulation.com, the new courses include the following new features:

- Audio and visual prompts throughout courses
- Interactive anatomical graphics
- Interactive case studies with audio and visual components and practice questions to help learners self-evaluate their progress during the course
- Summary sections provide key teaching points
- Authored by nationally-recognized Critical Care expert Barbara McLean, MN, RN, CCRN, CCNS, CRNP, FCCM

The SimSuite Sepsis Concise course focuses on early identification of sepsis and the Sepsis Resuscitation Bundle, according to guidelines set by the Surviving Sepsis Campaign and the Institute for Healthcare Improvement (IHI). The emphasis is on early identification and prevention of progression of sepsis to severe sepsis. The course includes 1.5 CE and is recommended for hospital based acute care nurses of all disciplines, new nurse graduates, new hires in the critical care units, and nursing students.

The SimSuite Sepsis Comprehensive course includes all content presented in Sepsis Concise as well as content on the pathophysiology of sepsis. This course encompasses both the Surviving Sepsis Campaign Resuscitation Bundle and Management Bundle. The course includes 4.0 CE and is recommended for healthcare providers working in critical care units, including nurses, medical students, residents, hospitalists, and physician intensivists.
